Dr. Leidy read a paper on the Fossil Horse of America. Referred to Drs. Morton, Hallowell and Pickering.

Mr. Townsend exhibited a living specimen of the common mouse, (Mus musculus) which possessed the remarkable peculiarity of uttering notes resembling those of a singing bird. The notes were uttered in very rapid succession, and although weak, could be readily idistinguished at the distance of several yards. The animal was recently taken in an ordinary trap, by a lady residing in the Northern Liberties.

Dr. Warrington, of England, exhibited and explained the modus operandi of an instrument of his own invention, which he called Spirometer, the object of which he stated to be, to test the capacity of the lungs in health and disease. "The amount of cubic inches of air the lungs are capable of expelling, being always in proportion to the height of the individual, and a scale attached to the instrument indicating with accuracy any diminished capacity, a standard of health and disease could be thus readily fixed, and the disorganization or contraction of the organ early detected."

The Committee to whom was referred the following paper, by Dr. Leidy, reported in favor of publication in the Proceedings.

On the Fossil Horse of America.

By Joseph Leidy, M. D.

The fact of the existence of fossil remains of the horse in America has been generally received with a good deal of incredulity, arising, perhaps, from the mere fact being stated of their having been found, often without even mentioning the associate fossils, and in all cases, previous to Mr. Owen,* without describing the specimen. At present their existence being fully confirmed, it is probably as much a wonder to naturalists as was the first sight of
